AUGUST 2014

From Mayor Wilson Summer Development Means Busy Crews

New growth in Lehi requires a lot of time and resources to complete projects the right way. Our Parks Division and Public Works Department have been working hard to stay up with new development.

You likely have seen concrete crews replacing and constructing sidewalks in many areas of town. Currently sidewalk replacement and construction is occurring in neighborhoods around the High School. This creates curb and gutter for proper drainage and allows for parking in the neighborhoods to be marked off before school begins.

Dry Creek Park, long-awaited by the neighborhood and the City, is looking great and will be completed soon. More parks will be under construction this year. Thank you for your patience as we plan and construct these parks.

Our goal is to plan and construct parks right the first time instead of redoing them a second time. When parks are completed, we know that they look great and we haven't compromised one bit of quality. We want our parks to be like one of the Seven Wonders of the World. People should use and enjoy them, not avoid them. There is no substitution for high quality.

Please be aware of the detour areas around new homes, roads, and bridges being built. It really means "detour," not "let's see what's going on." Repairing your car after it falls through a hole is expensive, but can you imagine the embarrassment from having the neighborhood watch you get a ticket for being less brilliant than your parents bragged about?

Don't forget to watch for kids as you drive. It's a busy time for them on bikes and skateboards with headphones on.

Literacy Center Ranked Best Tutoring Center

The Lehi-Rippy Literacy Center was recently recognized by the Daily Herald's Best of Utah Valley as Utah County's top tutoring center. This is the second year that the Literacy Center has been recognized, receiving 2nd place in 2013.

The Lehi-Rippy Literacy Center provides quality one-on-one tutoring to students and valuable service opportunities to residents. The tutors focus on a core curriculum that helps students grades K-6 read at grade level. The Literacy Center serves approximately 300 students and 75 volunteers at any given time.

The Best of Utah Valley is an annual, reader-generated competition that allows readers to rate community services, event venues, restaurants, and businesses.

Congratulations to the center staff and volunteers for this great accomplishment.

WHERE DOES OUR WATER COME FROM?

WHAT DOES GROWTH MEAN FOR LEHI'S WATER SUPPLY?

Water Rights v. Water Shares

A WATER RIGHT is the right to remove water from a source for beneficial use. Water rights are distributed and given priority by the Utah Division of Water Rights.

A WATER SHARE is an ownership in a water company. A share is measured in acre feet of water.

2.6
acre feet

Currently, a Lehi Irrigation Co. water share is assumed to equal 2.6 acre feet of water.

Water Sources

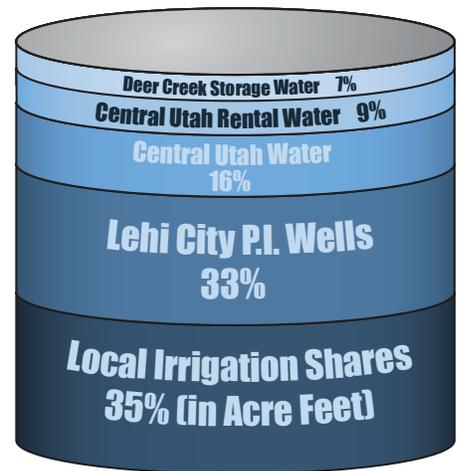

SURFACE WATER

Water found on the earth's surface, such as in a stream, river, or lake.

GROUND WATER

Water located beneath the earth's surface in porous space and underground layers of rock, called aquifers. This water is collected through city wells, springs, and drains.

Lehi uses a balance of both surface and ground water sources. The graph below shows the percent of irrigation water in acre feet from each source.

Water Supply

Holding water rights and irrigation company shares does not always equal physical water. A number of issues affect Lehi's water supply, including precipitation, water cycle, and aquifer issues.

Most of Lehi City's irrigation water comes from various surface water sources. Drought or below average snow pack greatly influences the amount of irrigation water available for use.

1.42

For a single family development, developers must provide an equivalent of 1.42 shares of Lehi Irrigation Co. water per acre of land.

Development

As Lehi grows, so does the number of water rights and shares owned by the City. Developers are required to provide water rights or water shares to satisfy the needs of any annexation or development. This allows the City to use water from water companies or develop other new sources for water, such as wells.

LEHI

Lehi City is currently under water restrictions for pressurized irrigation use. For more information about Lehi's conservation efforts, visit www.lehi-ut.gov/water-shortage-management-plan/
