JANUARY 2015

From Mayor Wilson Resolve to Have a Happy & Healthy New Year

This last month I have been thinking about all of the fun and pain that the holiday season brings. It seems like it gets harder with each passing year to buy gifts for your loved ones. As our kids grow their gifts get more expensive and come in smaller packages. Maybe I'm just getting old, but it seems like we cramp our brains trying to get the perfect gift when folks don't really need anything at all, kind of like the pink bunny pajamas little Ralphie got in the Christmas Story.

I remember the year I bought my wife a new dishwasher, not because the old one was worn out, but because I wanted to keep her around for a long time. That year my boys got Tonka Toys. They were more excited to play with the box the dishwasher came in than the nice trucks and loaders from Santa. What I'm saying is we create for ourselves the things we stress over. Pay attention to the little things and the big things will be taken care of.

I think a great gift for your family is to drive around together to look at lights, or even get some ice cream or hot chocolate. The City has worked hard to get lights on the City buildings and to make our City a show place. My hat also goes off to all those who have decorated their homes to make the holidays bright.

Once in a while it doesn't hurt to check on the neighbors, have a real visit, and enjoy the neighborhood. In fact, if you are looking for a meaningful gift, you might consider buying rodeo tickets in advance or Library Gala tickets, featuring the Bar J Wranglers.

To those who have made New Year's resolutions and have already broken them, you're right on track with last year. Change your way of thinking and recommit to do more. Become better at whatever you do or want to change.

I think that we could all be calling on the powers that be for some moisture and snow this year. Our streets department has not plowed snow once this season. I'm already starting to think about a water shortage this next spring. If we do get snow you can bet that the Streets department will be out taking care of us. Don't stress out if it falls faster than they can plow. Just be grateful for the moisture.

I hope that the holidays are happy and the New Year finds you healthy. Take time to evaluate what's really important, focus less on what you want, and enjoy what you already have.

Have a great New Year!
