JUNE 2016

From Mayor Wilson

Live a Life Worth Living

Summer is here, as is evidenced by the beautiful weather and the many activities going on in our community. This year there are eight homes in Lehi featured in the Utah Valley Home Builders Parade of Homes from June 2-18. Don't miss the opportunity to tour these homes. Husbands, get out your checkbook because your wife is going to want to make a few changes. Don't fight it; just pay it. It's going to happen one way or another.

The Utah Lake Festival is on Saturday, June 4, at the Utah Lake State Park. This event includes free fishing, games for the kids, boat rides, building sand castles, and many more activities.

The Utah Lake Commission has made some great improvements in recent years. Twenty-two million pounds of carp have been removed in an attempt to clean up the lake and restore vegetation. We still have about 10 million pounds to go. To put it in perspective, the carp would stretch from Lehi to Cincinnati if lined up end to end. That's a lot of fish.

Now, let's talk about water and growth. Did you know that when a new home is built the developer must provide water shares to Lehi City for irrigation and culinary use? This ensures that new homes do not take away from the current shares Lehi City owns resulting in enough water for everyone. Our water shares determine how much water we get from our natural sources. The problem comes when there is no water in the lakes or snow in the mountains. We have no control over the amount of snow pack or rainfall. We need to ask a person higher up than me to get more moisture.

Last but not least, remember Round-Up Week on June 19-25. Round-Up, with the parades, barbecue and rodeo, has more activities than you have fingers and toes to count. Order your tickets now for the rodeo on June 23-25. If you haven't been, you are missing a great show and the best family entertainment around.

Take time to smile at someone you don't like, hug those you care about, and tell someone how much they really mean to you. Live a life worth living.
