FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

LEHI EXPO TO HIGHLIGHT LEHI CITY SERVICES

Residents Invited to Spend the Afternoon with City Officials to Learn about Services

Lehi, Utah | April 28, 2015 – Citizens often wonder, ‘Just what exactly does my local government do?’ In an effort to answer all those questions and to educate citizens about city services, Lehi City is set to hold the annual Lehi City Expo this Thursday, April 30 from 4:00 pm to 7:00 pm at Legacy Park.

The event will include information booths from many of the city’s departments and divisions. Most people immediately recognize the police department, fire department, and utility services provided by cities, but there are many city services that people may not understand. City planners, engineers, and administrative service employees will be on hand to answer questions and tell residents about what they do for the community.

Children learning about power services.

Families can enjoy power bucket truck rides.

While the event is sure to be educational, there is plenty of fun as well. Expo attendees will get to see live birds, artifacts from the Hutchings Museum, heavy equipment displays, police K-9 demonstrations, SWAT vehicles, and a vehicle extrication demonstration by the fire department. The power department will also be providing bucket truck rides and free hot dogs. There will be plenty of other great giveaways to go around as well.

“We invite everyone to come out and learn about your local government; learn about some of our amazing services and have a great time,” encouraged Jason Walker, Interim City Administrator.

The Expo is an event the whole city looks forward to every year. There is sure to be something there for everyone.
