From Mayor Wilson

Appreciate What You Have and Where You Live

Where did the summer go? It seems like just a few days ago kids were looking forward to summer vacation and now they are back in school.

We have been blessed with several new elementary schools over the past few years. Now we have a new high school. Some might say that this will divide our city. Personally, I feel that it will only make us stronger. I believe it will be harder for the adults to adapt than for the kids. These young people have friends all over the city and real friendship isn't determined by the color of a school jacket. We need to remember that it's about education and learning, not the area you live or the newness of the building.

Now that school is back in session, please drive responsibly and watch for kids as they walk to and from school. Leave a little early so you get to where you are going on time. Expect delays and don't get upset.

I don't know of an area of town that doesn't have great people. Yes, we have new homes and old ones; that doesn't determine whose better or worse. Our neighborhoods invite newcomers. It's not uncommon for the least of these to become the best neighbors on the block.

I'm reminded of a story about a very rich man and his spoiled son. The man decided to take his son to the country to show him how poor people live. Upon returning, the father said, "What did you learn?"

The son replied, "I learned that they have wide open space to play and they can see the stars at night. I learned that they sit around the table every night and eat together with mismatched plates. They laugh and play and get their hands dirty without getting in trouble."

The son continued, "I noticed that their beds are perfect for sleeping because of the bumps in them. They don't buy designer jeans with holes, but they wear them out from working and playing hard. Yes, daddy, I can see that some of us don't have it as well as others, but maybe one day we can move to the country and live like them."

A real lesson learned. Take time to appreciate what you have and where you live. Lehi is one family and everyone plays an important role in the big picture of things. I find the best way to survive is to live, laugh, and enjoy life.

Embrace new friends and spend time with your family. Throw your electronic devices in a bucket for a while and communicate with your

Maple Dell Scout Camp

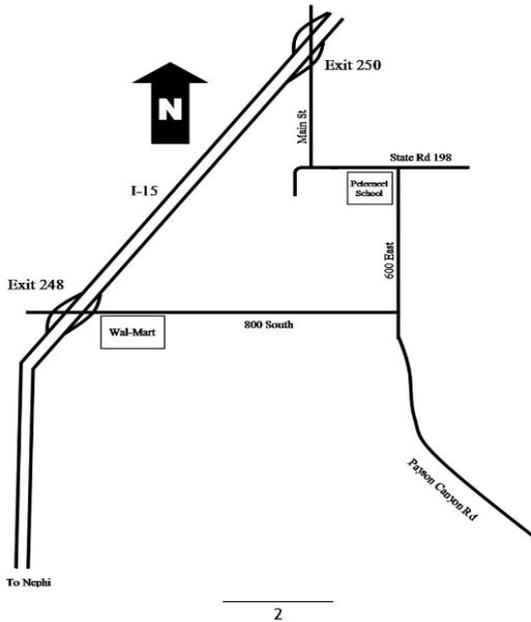

The Utah National Parks Council, Boy Scouts of America, would like to invite members of the press to the open house and dedication of the Maple Dell Activity Center September 9 from 4-7 p.m. The open house will take guests around Maple Dell to the many activities such as rifle shooting, zipline and tours of the facility. The dedication program will begin at 6pm and will include musical numbers, remarks and a special dedicatory prayer.

Maple Dell Scout Camp is located 5 miles up Payson Canyon. See map below for directions.

How to Get to Maple Dell

Elevation at camp is around 5,500 feet. The days can be hot and dry, while the evenings and nighttime can be cool. There are brief rain showers frequently throughout the season. Bring sun screen, drink lots of water, and plan your clothing and bedding accordingly. From I-15, you can take either Exit 250 or Exit 248 in Payson. Exit 248 is the most direct route to camp. After exiting the freeway, turn towards the mountains and go east. Simply stay on 800 South until the road comes to an end and you have to turn right or left on 600 East. Turn right and head up the canyon towards the camp. 600 East becomes Payson Canyon Rd. Maple Dell Scout Camp is approximately 5 miles up Payson Canyon. Prior to the entrance to the camp there is a sign that will point to the secondary parking lot to your left. Go past that and you will see the main entrance to the camp on your right. Please obey traffic laws and drive carefully.
