Giving Back

WRITTEN BY MAYOR PAUL BINNS

I want to take a moment to introduce myself, so you know who I am and why service matters to me. I was born and raised in the Taylorsville and Murray area and graduated from Murray High School in the class of 1994. For the past 25 years I have owned and operated a local insurance agency. Through that work I have also served in a variety of management roles that shaped my approach to leadership and responsibility.

I come from a great family. My parents and siblings taught me the value of hard work, honesty and showing up for others. I have been married for nearly 28 years to the love of my life Jeanette, and we are fortunate to have two wonderful daughters Marquessa and Courtney. We enjoy traveling, going for drives, golfing and attending concerts. Like every family we are far from perfect, but we work every day to be better.

I chose to run for mayor because I believe it is time for me to giveback. This community has given my family and me so much. At some point service becomes a responsibility, not just an idea. I felt this role was a good fit and I believe giving back is one of the defining qualities of Lehi.

Lehi has always been a city where people look out for one another. Giving back is not a slogan here. It is a habit. It shows up in small daily acts and in moments of real need. It is one of the reasons families choose to live here and businesses choose to invest here.

Giving back takes many forms. It can mean volunteering at a school, food pantry or youth program. It can mean coaching a team, mentoring a student or checking on a neighbor. It can also mean supporting local nonprofits and community events. Every effort matters.

Our city is stronger because residents step forward. Volunteers support public safety events, beautification projects and service organizations. Faith groups, service clubs and nonprofits quietly meet real needs everyday. City staff and first responders often give beyond their job descriptions.

A strong city is not measured only by growth or buildings. It is measured by how people care for one another. Thank you to everyone who gives their time, resources and compassion to our community. Your service makes Lehi a place we are proud to call home.

Best Regards, Mayor Paul Binns
